DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 9/19/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. Claims 1-3 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mahn (US 5411783) for the reasons of record. Applicant argues (1) the Mahn elastomer layer is not described as being heat and pressure resistant and (2) the Mahn substrate is not a support means. With regard to the first argument it remains the examiners position that the elastomer layer possesses the claimed pressure resistance properties. However, the elastomer layer comprises the identical material as that of the release coating. Consequently, it is inherent the layer possesses these properties. In addition, Mahn explains that, in attaching the elastomer layer to a substrate, heat and pressure are applied, which softens the adhesive but does not soften the elastomer layer. See col. 3, ll 52-60. Mahn, then, discloses that the layer is, in fact heat and pressure resistant. With regard to the second argument, the cloth substrate supports the elastomer layer. See Figures. The fact that an adhesive layer exists between the elastomer layer and substrate of Mahn is not dispositive on the issue of patentability. The use of the open-ended transition term "comprising" in the claims of the instant invention does not prohibit the existence of other layers within the medium. It is suggested that applicant use the closed transition phrase "consisting of."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. For similar reasons, claims 4-5 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mahn (i.e., for the reasons of record in view of the above arguments).

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
